Just one look, you'll know they are...

Special person

People with Disability

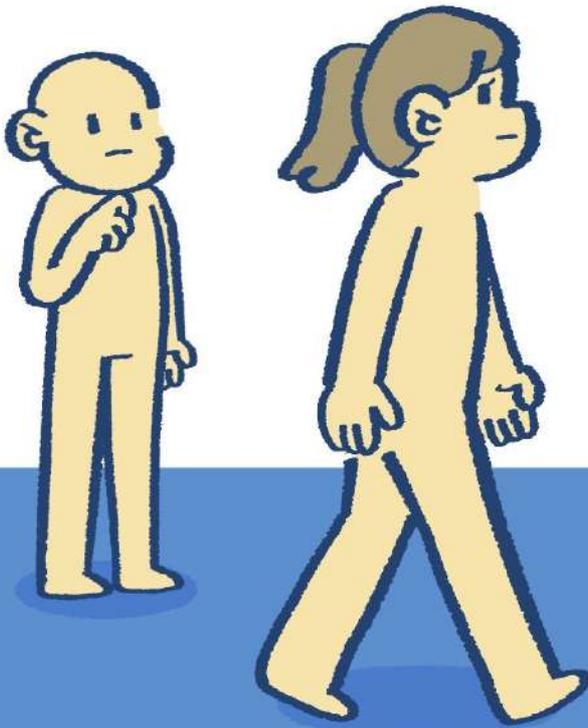

Stranger

PWD

You probably have a question in your mind.

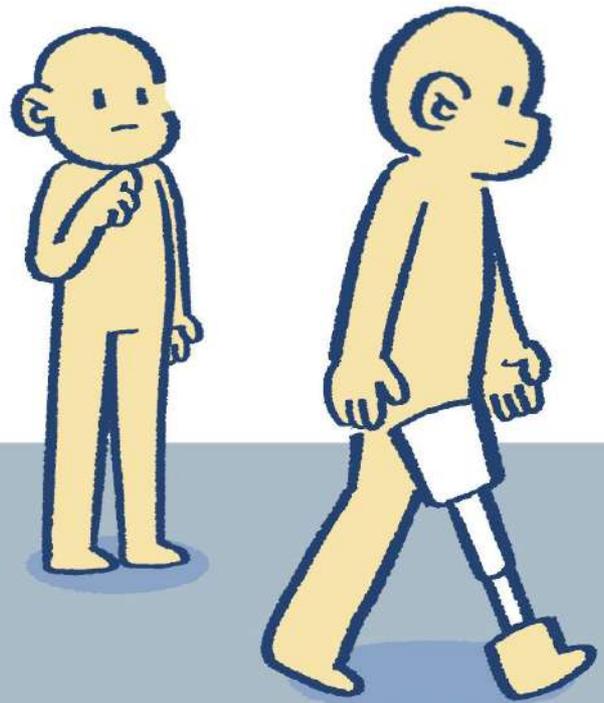

What kind of life does she have?
Why is she so cute?
Does she want love from us?

Stranger

What kind of life does he have?
What caused his disability?
Does he want help from us?

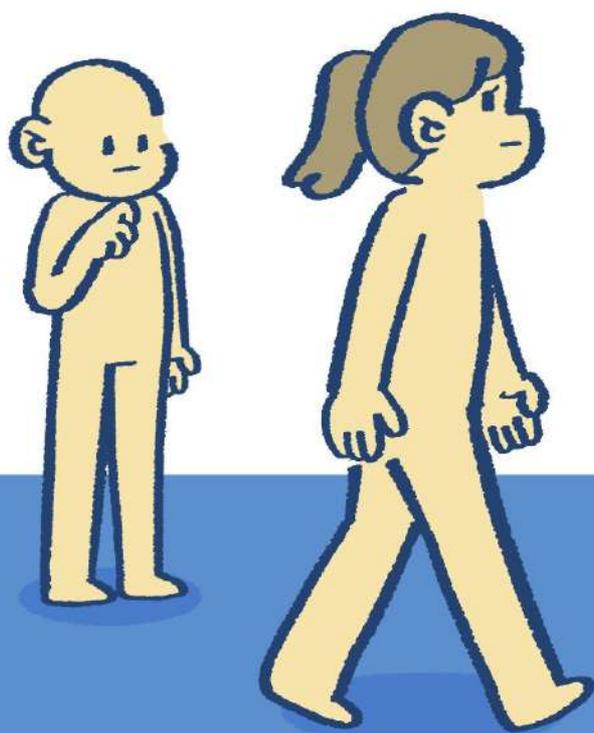

PWD

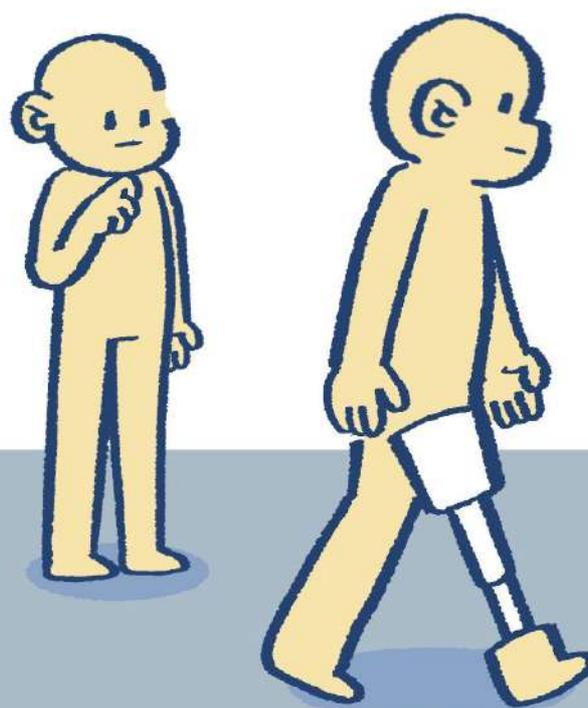

But you didn't even dare ask.

Is it ok to ask?

Stranger

Is it rude to ask?

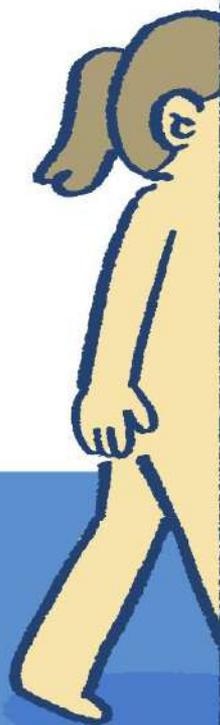

PWD

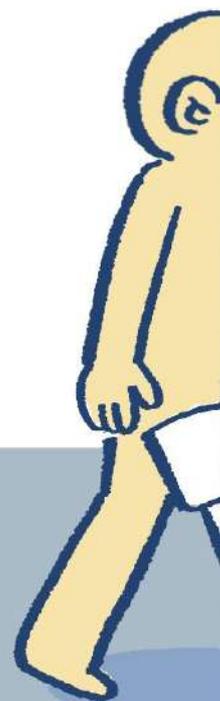

Then, you let them walk away.

Stranger

PWD

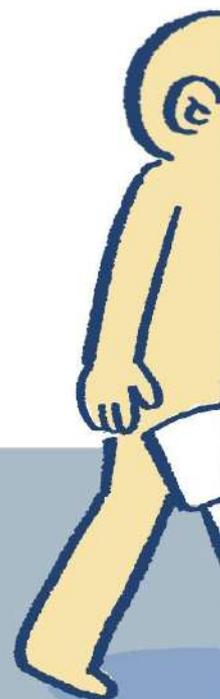

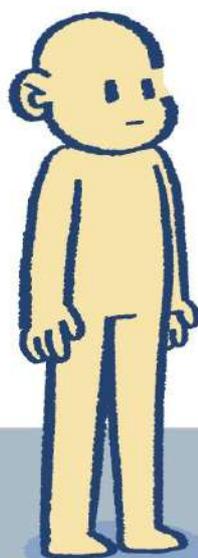

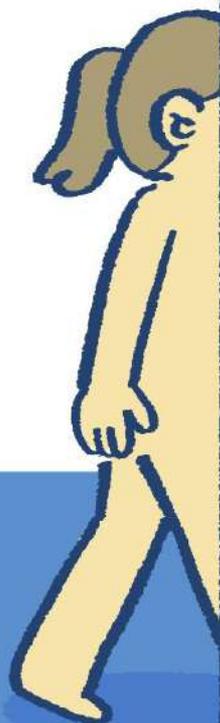

Almost gone?

I must ask now.

Nae! forget it.

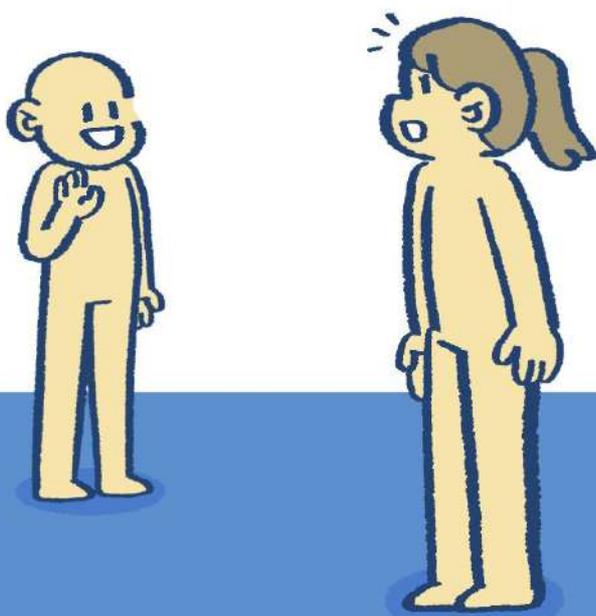

Stranger

PWD

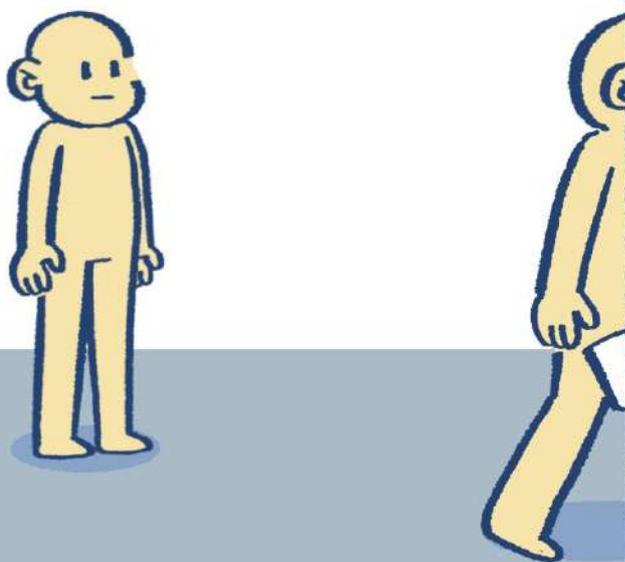

Then, you might get to know.

Acquaintance

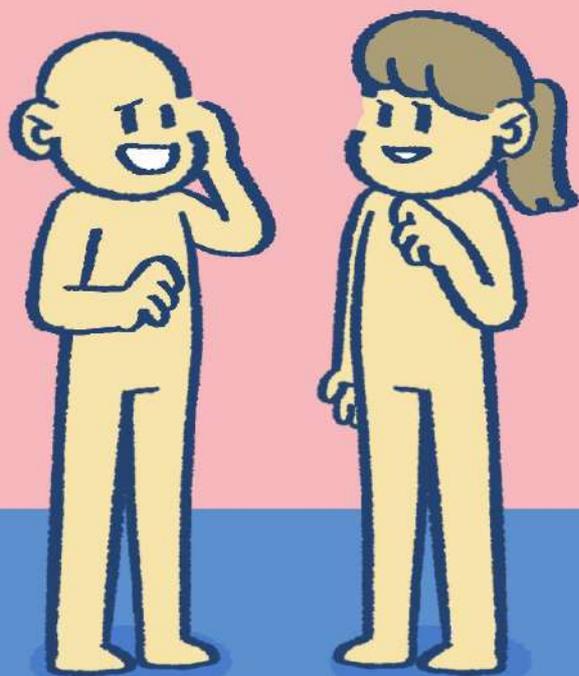

Then, you'll never get to know.

PWD

Might get to understand.

Closed friend

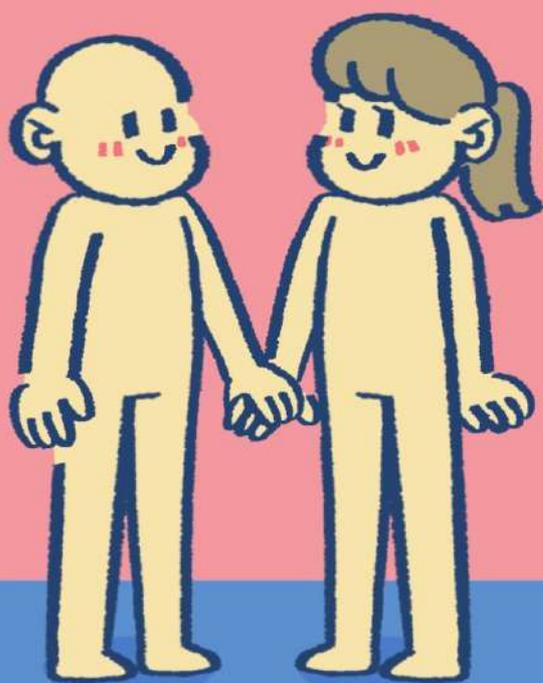

Never understand.

PWD

And, you might end up together in life.

Special person

And, it's like we don't exist in your life.

PWD

BUT she might not want you to ask her,
Doesn't want to know you,
has no interest in you.
For her, you don't even exist.

Stranger

BUT we want you to ask us,
we want you to know and understand us,
We want to be existent in the society with you.

Acquaintance

Please ask us
for better understanding.

The more we communicate.
The more we understand.

Seeing people with disability passing by,
many people may be curious about them
but think that it is not good idea to ask.
...It is not a good manner ...it might add to their agony
...so, doubts remain, misunderstandings continue.

In fact, you can ask. Please ask.
Ask nicely with a voice that shows interest and we will understand each other better.
